

Literacy Leadership Team and Response to Intervention Institute

Overview: Pearson's Literacy Leadership Team and Response to Intervention (RTI) institute helps K-12 educators and administrators set up an effective literacy leadership team, use the team in a successful RTI system, and bridge the gap between coaching, leadership and RTI. The institute goes beyond basic ideas of literacy coaching to help K-12 educators and administrators build capacity for implementing and sustaining positive change. Through case studies, guides and interactive activities, participants will be equipped with the skills and knowledge needed to implement literacy leadership teams in their schools.

Participants are provided with market-leading resources from reading intervention experts.
